Assuming a similar ratio for expenses for 1861, as for 1860, the net for the former year will be $1,986,862. Deducting from this sum the accruing interest, there would be left $608,377 for the preferred shares. These cannot exceed $8,000,000, and call for $560,000 annually. This statement is correct in all but the estimates for expenses for 1861. which are assumed to have been at the same rate as for 1860. This estimate cannot be far out of the way. It shows that the net earnings for the year have exceeded by $14,377, the interest on the debt of the Company and a sum equal to dividends at the rate of 7 & cent on the preferred stock. The company will enter the new year with greatly increased ports from the seat of war, opened this morning with facilities for business, and with the prospect of much larger earnings for 1862 than for 1861.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says:

The Philadelphia Ledger, speaking of the weekly statement of the banks of that city, says:

The exhibit shows an increase of specie, while the leans, deposits, and circulation have each decreased. The business of the banks in all of the items is unusually large, in consequence of their connection with the 7.30 per cent Treasury note subscription. A satisfactory matter in connection with their operations in this loan is the fulness of their specie line, which is now greater than it was before. Thus far their advances to the Government have not narrowed a deliar of the ability to accommodate the current demands of their business ability to accommodate the chilest chilest at the office of Jay Cooke up to last evening was about $50,000, nearly/double the amount subscribed on either Friday or Saturday, and yet less than half the simount taken at the same place on Monday of last week. This apathy, however, is not confined alone to the United States Treasury notes. The whole stock market, from some cause, seems to be crushed out.
